METERology Energy Monitoring system

There are three reasons for us to want to reduce our energy consumption:

- Our approach to sustainability, recycling and energy reduction gives us a competitive advantage with our customers who are increasingly focussed on these issues as part of their supplier assessments.
- We save money.
- As Directors and individuals we care about the impact of what we do on the environment and so do our staff.

METERology has allowed us to see exactly what energy we are using and when we are using it. The displays are clear and very easy to understand, the response of the system is fast and having the data available in real time means that we can easily relate our energy consumption to what is happening in the factory.

We can see the results of our improvement activity and can demonstrate the financial savings. This has been a very cost effective solution that has been well worth the investment.

Yours Faithfully,

Mike Chaplin
Technical Director
